Transfer Of Licenses Approved By Board

A transfer of hackney carriage licenses has been effected from Francis J. O'Connell, who is presently operating out of Railroad ave., to Dewey Mitchell of 174 Lexington st., East Boston, proprietor of two stores on the corner of Mass. and Railroad aves.

Mitchell plans to use his own car, a 1961 Chrysler, to start his cab business, and expects two new Chevrolets to be delivered between Jan. 1 and 10.

No desire was expressed by Mitchell to operate out of the old railroad station, as O'Connell has done. He stated that the cab base will be his own variety store, and he intends to occupy the Mass. ave. space in front of his store, along with four spaces on Railroad ave. starting at the corner.

As business increases, Mitchell will purchase two additional cabs, filling the five licenses which the Board of Selectmen has granted. However, the Board will hold the additional licenses, to be picked up by Mitchell as each cab is purchased and insured.

Selectmen Arthur Sawl stated that proper service to the people of Arlington was the prime concern of the Board. Mitchell expressed his feeling that all five cabs were called for, and would be put to excellent use.

With reference to an alleged unregistered motor vehicle on Railroad ave., reported by police as a cab belonging to O'Connell, the Board decided the matter resolved by the transfer of licenses.

R R Ave. Extension Causes Water Street Opposition

A loud and fast series of questions and answers exploded after a mild start in a preliminary hearing for the abutters in the proposed Railroad ave. extension, at the final 1962 Selectmen's meeting.

To begin the hearing, a diagram of the proposed layout was placed on the desk, and all present were invited to examine it. Among the examiners was abutter Raymond Forrest of 13 Water st., who came out wholeheartedly opposed to an extension.

"Nothing is to be accomplished by such a road, except for the banks and parking lots," Forrest said.

The area involved is bounded by Mass. ave., B and M railroad, Railroad ave. and Water st. Proposed extension would join Railroad ave. with Water st., and the former would probably become a one-way.

Forrest, who seemed to be carrying on a two way conversation with Selectman Joseph Greeley, referred to the layout plans as a catastrophe if they are effected.

Citing his personal experience with traffic control, Forrest, who has been a member of the Arlington police force for a number of years, commented on the inevitable "bottleneck" situation on Water st. if the plans go through.

Speaking of the Water st. situation at present, Forrest and a number of other residents agreed that it was now hazardous and difficult to cross. They considered it a menace particularly for children in that area, and stated the extension would cause even greater amounts of traffic to use the street.

Forrest's voice continued to rise as he addressed one opposition after another to Selectman Greeley, who remained extremely calm as he listened to the comments.

As an alternative to the avenue extension, Forrest recommended that only a right turn be allowed on to Railroad ave. This would relieve the strain of traffic coming from both directions them as 'a boo-boo'. He pleaded with the Selectmen to give greater review to the proposed plans, and not to "pull another boo-boo."

Feeling ran high as Forrest ended his protest, pleading with the Board not to cut through his property and not jeopardize the children living in the Water st. area.

onto the avenue, and being met by cars going out of it. "This is a bad thing you're doing," Forrest said, speaking to the Board on the results of the construction.

"But if it's bad," Greeley argued, "why would we consider it?"

Laughter broke out at the meeting as Forrest called several "past mistakes" in road extension or construction to the attention of the Board, referring to each of

He assured the Board that he would remain constant in his opposition to plans, and would not stand for any of the measures for which they call.

As the hearing progressed, the matter of betterment assessments was brought up, which mainly involve the Harvard Trust Co. and Mr. Forrest.

Forrest got up from his seat and asked for another point of information, the reason for his being assessed for a betterment, when "there will actually be no betterment and the construction is not wanted."

Greeley was in agreement with this point, also feeling that the assessment was not called for.

Finally, representatives of the Harvard Trust went before the Board, reviewing the betterment assessment of $4,900.

A hearing for all the abutting owners has been scheduled for Feb. 4, before which they will be notified by mail.

Macdonald Reports On Asian Tour

"The war in Viet Nam is the only shooting war between the United States and the Communists," so spoke Torbert H. Macdonald at a press conference held for the newspapers of the seventh congressional district, last Thursday.

The purpose of his trip was to study the problem of textiles and factories in Southeast Asia. In Hong Kong, Mr. Macdonald saw the refugees, pouring in from Red China at a rate of one million a year. He also told about seeing the Communists in action and to use his words, "they looked like chain gangs."

People and governments all over the free world want to see Hong Kong remain free.

but the labor problem there is serious. Coolie labor costs 26 cents an hour as compared to U. S. average of about $2.50 an hour. Labor unions are unheard of there.

In Saigon, Macdonald met with President Diem, the ruler of South Viet Nam and discussed the foreign aid now coming to his country from the United States. The Communists are trying to get this tiny country under control but with the help of the special troops from the United States, Viet Nam is holding its own very well.

Because of severe undergrowth of this country, the war has to be fought by plane and helicopter. In taking an air tour, Macdonald witnessed the dangers of this type of warfare. The tribes in this dense part of Viet Nam are still living in a primitive state. Teaching these people is more important than shooting at them, but the Communists have done all they possibly can to turn these people against the free way of living and the job of helping becomes one of fighting.

The United States now has 10,000 special troops in Viet Nam, but they are doing more than aiding in the fighting; they are teaching these people the rudiments of medicine and sanitation. The progress here is slow, but Viet Nam has other factors that keep her on the road to

New Rates - - Busy Advocate

The Advocate's circulation department has been kept hopping on a single detail—processing of new and renewal subscriptions—since its announcement two weeks ago concerning an increase in rates. (See page 2—Ed.)

Many of this paper's subscribers have already taken advantage of the money-saving offer to renew at the rate which they have been paying.

With due respect to the efforts of the circulation department—and it has been doing a highly commendable job—it can't last forever at its present rate (double meaning?).

All present subscribers wishing to benefit with the "old-rate" saving are urged to get their applications to this paper (by mail, carrier pigeon, personal appearance or any other well-devised method) before the above-mentioned department wears out.

To remind you of the rates in effect, the yearly rate to new subscribers is $5. For old ones (not necessarily aged) who subscribe while the offer is on, only $4. Deadline is Feb. 1, 1963.

Now, to editorialize a bit, let's back the efforts of these grand old troupers. Let's keep that mound of mail high.

Meanwhile, patriotic feeling will run high, as that familiar old cry is shouted to new lyrics, "Remember the circulation department."

Report Prowler

Prowlers were reported by two residents of Magnolia st. last week, apparently involving the same man.

Edward Thibodeau of 18 Magnolia st. reported an attempted entry on his home, and upon police investigation it was determined that entry had been gained.

No losses were reported. A short time later, Thomas Dean, 17, of 25 Magnolia st., reported that someone was trying the cellar door for entry as he was entering the house.

The prowler then tried the front door and left before Mr. Dean was able to confront him.

Editorial—

Whose Responsibility?

At 5:15 p.m. the door-bell rings, and you, the busy parent put down your pie pan or newspaper, or leave the television room, and answer the door.

After opening the door, you stare curiously for a moment, wondering at the presence of a uniformed policeman. He seems to be studying you with the same curiosity, probably trying to decide what tone of voice to take, what manner of approach to use.

Finally, the words are out. You stand there dazed, asking yourself the same question over and over—is it possible? Of course it isn't, you say, but with each repetition, the denials are less convincing.

Well, it has happened. Your 13-year-old son is dead, the victim of one of those freak skating mishaps, which occur only for the purpose of momentarily alerting the public to the "existing dangers."

There were other boys present at the scene of the accident, but none of them knew just what to do. One, a 16-year-old, ventured out to the section of cracked ice where the boy had fallen through, but was forced back when the ice began to give way.

Now the citizenry is screaming for precautionary measures from local officials. The people demand that steps be taken to insure the safety of their youngsters. Something must be done.

Yes, something, but what? On whose shoulders does this responsibility lie? The public official can only prescribe a safety device of some sort. The patrolman can view the "danger spot" only as often as his route allows.

Whom does this leave? Only you—and your children. The children are principal users of the various recreation areas. They must be safety-educated—by you.

25 Splendid Years

The March of Dimes began as a tribute to an American president who proved that even though a man might not be able to walk, he could still lead.

Each president, in the 25 years since, has welcomed the annual March of Dimes as an opportunity to salute the American people for a record of accomplishment which cannot be matched by any other voluntary health agency in the world.

Neighbor helping neighbor, through the March of Dimes, has brought about:

- for many areas in the country, new facilities offering highest quality medical care for persons with polio, birth defects and arthritis through a growing network of treatment centers.
- for every child on every continent, polio protection through vaccines developed solely with March of Dimes funds.
- for the protection of human life, a magnificent fund of basic research, which promises to shed light on a variety of diseases.
- for thousands of young people from every state, scholarships in the health professions.

for thousands afflicted by birth defects, arthritis and polio, more than one-third of a billion dollars in patient aid.

for anyone who ever suffers from a crippling disability, development of improved equipment and medical techniques, originally to aid polio patients, but now used to relieve many kinds of crippling handicaps.

In this area hundreds of "good neighbors" are volunteering their services this month in the National Foundation's great fight against crippling diseases. Mothers, fathers and teenagers, too, are participating in the annual campaign for funds which make possible the treatment, care and research in this great humanitarian effort.

Those who are unable to participate actively in the campaign can help the cause by responding generously to the appeal of the volunteer workers.

The campaign slogan "Give for the Life of a Child" will, we feel sure, touch every heart during this Silver Anniversary of the March of Dimes.

Positive Action Needed, Now

In all this talk about tax reform, tax reductions, a "quickie" cut versus long range plans, one fact will stand out bold and clear before the new Congress convening next month.

Somebody has to do something! Our economy is operating at a high level, but it shows no zoom. Unemployment stays around five percent, our rate of growth is limping along at 2½ percent. Our rate is far below the growth dynamics of the new Europe, and dangerously slow in comparison with the rocket pace of the Soviets.

Acutely aware that the country is not "moving again", President Kennedy has now called for across-the-board, top-to-bottom cuts in both personal and corporate income taxes. Federal tax rates that reach up to 91 percent of taxable income, he says, are impeding our national economy. The problem: how to lower federal taxes without boosting federal deficits.

Two Congressmen, both members of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, believe they have found the answer. They are Rep. Sydney Herlong of Florida, a Democrat, and Rep. Howard Baker of Tennessee, a Republican. Their bi-partisan approach is a plan to trim income tax rates while supplying a little bounte to the sagging economy.

Their proposals have been widely endorsed by the nation's businessmen. Here's what their bill would do for the individual taxpayer.

1. Reduce all income taxes gradually over a five to ten year period.

2. At the end of that period every taxpayer would have received at least a 25 percent reduction in his or her federal income tax.

3. The new top rate for corporations and individuals would be dropped to 42 percent. Incidentally, this is still higher than the tax rates during World War II and the Korean War.

Because the reduction would be gradual unmanageable federal deficits would not further weaken the dollar in world trade.

President Kennedy has declared our present tax rates are holding us back.

Reps. Herlong and Baker agree. They have furthermore given us a working, bi-partisan, business-supported proposal to cut taxes — and to do it within the budget.

The Herlong-Baker bills will be one of the first orders of business for the new Congress next month. For the sake of our national economy, and the welfare of us all, our legislators should consider these proposals without delay.

Sad Children, Sad To See

How many times do we here this greeting in December? Everyone uses it, family, friends, even strangers. What are the things you see at Christmas? "Happy Holidays," "Buy Now, Pay Later," "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men," or perhaps you'll even hear, "Give to others." What does all this mean? Do you know what Christmas is? Of course you do, but what is Christmas, to you as an individual?

If you have children, it means making them happy in a land of make-believe — Santa and his reindeer. It means a lot to see their little faces when they become excited. Our community has so much of the Christmas spirit, yet everyone becomes too preoccupied with themselves and their families to realize that not everyone can celebrate these Holy days.

Our modern world is troubled, but at this time of the year, we forget and turn to fantasy. Strange to call it that, yet who thinks of the entire world? Try it. Think of UNICEF. Little children who are born into sorrowful lives without much chance at happiness — half of them don't know anything about Christmas. Sad children are unbearable to see.

Broken hearts need mending more than anything else. We can buy them toys, but only love makes Christmas happy. Put your love in a letter with your donation to UNICEF, and help mend a broken heart somewhere in this world during the Season of Giving.

That Man About Town

By MAT

It's a small matter, we suppose, but we wonder how much the gas and oil, the wear and tear, etc., costs to carry Town employees back and forth at lunch time. You see cars, trucks, buses scattered all over town.

We just can't figure out whether things will be quieter or noisier around here now that "Led" O'Connell has sold his taxi business, located in the Center R.R. station.

We assume the fellow tenants, the V.F.W., has not lost a friend, however. "Led" will be up and talking when the R.R. avenue project comes before the Town Meeting in March.

We know money is money and the lack of it is always a problem. But, the unfinished side still makes the R.R. station an eyesore amidst the fine K. of C. building and Mirak's beautiful Telephone edifice.

Did the Town officials make any effort to get one of those extra commuter trains to stop at Arlington Heights, East, and Lake st. If not, why not? It would have been worth a try or, at least, some inquiries.

Verdi Concerts

One hundred forty-eight singers from Arlington, Lexington and 38 other communities have rehearsed since September in preparation for the Lexington Choral Society's performance of Verdi's "Te Deum" and the "Manzoni Requiem".

The Choral Society, assisted by soloists and orchestra, will present these works in Cary Hall, Lexington, Jan. 12-13 at 8:30 p. m. The piano accompanist of the organization is Donald MacFeeley of Arlington.

The "Te Deum", written for double chorus, is one of Four Sacred Pieces composed in 1896. The magnificent Requiem Mass, completed in 1874, was written to commemorate the death of the poet Manzoni.

It has been remarked that in composing this dramatic masterpiece Verdi was praising God to the best of his ability according to his talents. Also that, "Verdi's unquestioning use of his natural operatic speech bears witness to the flaming sincerity in every note."

Soloists for the concert will be Marjorie McClung, soprano; Corinne Curry, mezzo-soprano; Carl Oise,

As we recall it, the Town Manager once made the statement that his aim was to have the entire town sanded in a couple of hours. This was made way back when we bought several MTA trucks and other equipment. Obviously, that aim is a bit off target.

In the coming campaign for Selectman, we bet Bob Porteus' name will be seen in print about 30,000 times — particularly in another political column in another news(?) paper which, it is expected, will "herald" the joyous expectancy of Bob's election. Naturally, Mat will help a bit, too — the poor fellow needs it.

We are plenty sore at the Advocate! In its Christmas greeting bit at the top of the editorial column in the issue of Dec. 20, it listed the names of 18 employees PLUS the boy collectors and the postmen.

That is darn near everybody in town. And, where was Mat listed — nowhere!

Anyway, we said Merry Xmas in our own private column in our own private way. So, dear Advo, you go your way — we ours, as usual.

Indian Chemist In Visit Here

Dimes Drive Makes Start

Tammanur R. Pattabhiraman of Madras, India, was a recent visitor at the Robbins library. Guided by Trustee Mrs. Gordon F. Thompson, he saw various departments and answered questions about his homeland and special interests.

A graduate student at The Center for Cultural and Technical Interchange Between East and West in Hawaii, Pattabhiraman, who in India teaches organic chemistry to graduate students at the University of Madras, is making a special study of medicinal plants. A number which are found in Hawaii, he said, are similar to those in India.

He expects to return to India around June of 1964. Meanwhile, he enjoys Hawaii.

The Center for Cultural and Technical Interchange there is supported by the United States federal government and administered by the University of Hawaii. It is planned that the student body of the Center shall have students from East and West in the ratio of two from the East for each one from the West.

Arrangements are made permitting Easterners to study in the United States mainland for a few months, and for Westerners similarly to study in the Orient. Such studies require approval and appropriateness in relation to the special fields of the individuals concerned.

Pattabhiraman said he had found people in the United States friendly and had noted that they have ambitious programs.

Questioned about libraries in his home city, he said there was not only the library of the University of Madras, which is also setting up a library in another community, but a public library called the Connemara library.

Paint Business Good For '63

Complete 1962 sales figures for the paint industry are not yet available, but it appears now that they will be approximately 4% above those of 1961.

With this gain, the industry will have had very close to two billion dollars in sales during the past year, according to E. Colin Baldwin, president of Sherwin-Williams Co.

There have been no general increases in paint prices for some time. A few industrial finishes (materials used on the products of industry) were adjusted upward during 1962, but prices on others were reduced. In the trade sales segment of the business (paints used by professional painters, maintenance personnel and retail customers), there was practically no price variation. As a result, buyers of both industrial and trial and trade sales materials have been getting more for their paint dollars since they have had the benefit of constantly improved products at no increase in prices.

The industry sales pattern of last year will very likely be repeated in the year ahead, Baldwin said. Sales should show a further modest increase. At the same time, highly competitive pressures in the industry will probably maintain prices at present levels.

Some significant changes in consumer buying habits will surely have an effect on selling methods. What might be called a "new sophistication" has come into the market place.

More and more paint buyers have come to realize that "bargain" paints are rarely if ever, a bargain. They measure the true cost of paint in terms of how long it will hold up, Baldwin pointed out.

Furthermore, these paint buyers expect their source of supply to be able to give them reliable advice on the use of paint. They want that advice backed up by a broad choice of colors and types of paint. Even the mass merchandisers have become aware of this development and are equipping themselves to give the kind of service consumers want.

"At Sherwin-Williams we look forward to a year of good business in 1963. To support our optimism, we are carrying forward intensive research and development on new products, and the equipment in our manufacturing plants is being augmented to assure improved service to our domestic and foreign markets," Baldwin said.

Local S-W paint store is located at 457 Mass. ave. in the Center.

In order to accomplish the task of impressing upon the youngster this need for ice and water knowledge to avoid disaster, you, the adult, must be educated. The child should not have to demonstrate a lack of community concern for his safety. An interested public must take the first step.

An extremely worth-while project is scheduled to take place this weekend, sponsored by the Spy Pond Ass'n and the Cranston Fire Dep't Rescue Division, which will provide invaluable information on ice safety.

Show your concern. Be present and learn.

Bill Shea kept the Hawks in the game when he took a pass at center ice from Jim Nato, worked his way in close and dented the strings.

Rockets 5, Maroons 1
The Rockets, led by Dave Kennedy's two goals, blasted off on the Maroons 5-1.

Dave Kennedy drilled his second goal into the case after a pass from Tony Lyons.

Dan McDermott finished the route when he rifled a high one into the right corner. John Lyons gained an assist on the play.

A. H. S. Hockey Team Has 2nd Double WinFire Auxiliary Head Retires

At a recent meeting of the Arlington Auxiliary Fire Dept. Malcolm B. Griffin of 25 Addison st. officially retired as chief of the organization. The meeting was attended by 40 members and officers and by Civil Defense and Fire Dept. officials.

The program was under the direction of the new auxiliary fire chief A. Henry Ottoson and auxiliary firefighters Dean Okerblom, Byron Roscoe and Jack Connell.

Representing the Arlington Fire Department was Deputy Chief Irving Proctor who serves as coordinator between the regular Fire Dept. and the Auxiliary. In paying tribute to Chief Griffin, Deputy Proctor recalled the many long hours that he spent working with Chief Griffin developing the organization to its present status.

Another speaker was local Civil Defense director, John Dempsey. He thanked Chief Griffin for "the untiring work he has done for Civil Defense and the town."

Chief Griffin was presented a plaque by District Deputy Dave Shute in behalf of the auxiliary.

Other officers in attendance were District Chief John Akers and Chief Ottoson. J. Fred McGann who is the Auxiliary Deputy Chief was unable to attend due to illness.

The evening program also featured a show of slides of a recent trip to the Worlds Fair by Ralph Kenny, clerk of the Auxiliary.

Chief Griffin was one of the original firefighters of the 1930's who actually slept in the fire house and had tours of duty as aides to the regular firemen. This group was disbanded in the late thirties and reorganized in 1942.

Chief Griffin played an important part in this reorganization, first as what was known as a "squad leader" and later as a deputy chief. He was made Chief in 1954 and has held that position until this year.

The Auxiliary Fire department is a voluntary organization which is governed by the Civil Defense Authority with the cooperation of the regular fire department.

It is made up of men who take part in this activity in their spare time. The men act as aides to the regular fire department and has proven to be one of the most active C. D. organizations in the area.

An edge and a shutout by Arlington High's hockey squad have pushed the locals closer to first place in the GBI league, in last week's action at the Boston Arena. Thursday's game featured exciting last-round scoring by Arlington, which fought through a 1 to 0 Waltham lead, and came out ahead 2 to 1. The second period goal was shot from 30 feet by Waltham's John Leger, while Arlington's tries on goalie George McPhee kept failing.

Arlington broke the ice at 5:25 of the last period, to tie the score on a shot by Gordie Clarke. The decisive goal came three minutes later, with Arlington's Toczykowski scoring on assists from Clarke and Fredo.

Cambridge Latin suffered a four-goal first period rout in Saturday's game, as the locals split the scoring 2, 1 and 1. Carr, right defense for Arlington hit the Cambridge net for two goals.

Other goals were scored by Don Webb, defenseman, and spare, Larry Capello. Second and third periods turned out to be a skating contest.

These two games, added to the double win of two weeks ago, leave Arlington only two points off first place. Newton and Medford, league leaders, are the teams to watch in future action. They are now carrying records of 5-1 and 4-0.

progress. This small area raises more cattle than Texas.

"We are winning," said Mr. MacDonald; "but famine is the biggest problem and until we can cut off the corridor from Red China into South Viet Nam, the victory is far away." President Diem is doing all in his power to fight off the oppression of the Communists and the Viet Namese people, when roused, fight like tigers for the freedom of their country. The problem lies in the dense jungles of this war-torn land. The tour lasted a month and Congressman MacDonald discussed it with President Kennedy before and after the trip. They both agree that more talks are necessary to solve some of these problems in South east Asia and win the war in South Viet Nam.

GOLLINS CORNER

Great names in sports remain on top for many years. In Baseball all over the country we have a Babe Ruth League, and in Football we have a 'Pop' Warner group, and now we see just getting under way an Art Ross league for young hockey players.

This new league is sponsored by the Fidelity House in St. Agnes Parish, and it is for boys under 18 as of Jan. 3, 1963. It is a non-sectarian set-up and the league opens at the Boston Skating Club tonight with two games, and plenty of time for adults to skate, all for the price of $1.00.

The league, as now organized, will have five teams, one from Arlington, two from Malden and one each from Allston and Dorchester. The St. Agnes team drew a bye for tonight, so they will open on Jan. 10.

This is a very ambitious program, as hockey, under the leadership of John Carney, started only four years ago with a budget of $400 and this year will spend over $3,000, and most of this money comes from the boys in the form of ice dues.

They have four jerseyed teams at the Fidelity House, one known as the St. Agnes 'JETS'.

The team in the Art Ross League is called the St. Agnes FLYERS. This team last year went to Berlin, New Hampshire, and beat Notre Dame.

The name of Art Ross is most fitting, as he was one of the All-Time greats in hockey in Canada and played on many championship teams.

When professional hockey first came to Boston in the winter of 1923-24, the man responsible for its inception was Charles F. Adams, and he in turn brought Art Ross down to Boston to become its first manager. Ross managed for many years, and later became the Bruins president. He is now retired and lives in Boston.

He amazed the hockey world by having a team in the Stanley Cup finals in 1926-1927, and was defeated for the championship by Ottawa. Names that will be remembered at that time were Hitchman, Shore, Winkler, Cleghorn and the All Star team as picked by the managers were King Clancy, Eddie Shore, Howie Morenz, Roy Worters, George Hay, and William Cook.

Those were great years in hockey, and early games were played at the Boston Arena, until the construction of the Garden. As a player for 17 years in Canada, and then as manager and president, Ross has done much to make the game as popular as it is, and the Fidelity House is to be congratulated for tying themselves to a fine name in the hockey world.

So, some of you former 'greats' in hockey, go up in the attic and dust off the old clamp skates, and take a few whirls around the ice at intermission. There are two exits at all rinks, one at each end, in case you can't make it back.

The comforting thought to all parents is the fact that these games are played on safe rinks, and not on some of our dangerous ponds and lakes.

It was the brawling, tumultuous years of politics in Boston... the florid era of Honey Fitz, who rode to fame on a song he sang himself... "Sweet Adeline".

Beginning Tuesday, Jan. 8, the Boston Record American will serialize John Henry Cutler's nostalgic book, "Honey Fitz", which has already caught much public attention, since the derby-hatted frock-coated pioneer is the grandfather of the President, the Attorney General, and the new U. S. Senator.

Fighting prejudice, poverty, and ignorance, John F. "Honey Fitz" Fitzgerald brought a new concept to Boston politics and set the pattern for political organization that has been so successfully followed by his grandsons.

Replete with amusing incidents and comments about the gaslight and horsecar era, "Honey Fitz" is a warm and knowledgeable series both informative and entertaining, critics say.

To Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Wiseman (Eva M. Rankin) of 45 Massachusetts ave., a son on December 20 at Symmes.

Advocate makes a double proposal. The first is that the new Russell School be built on a site "compatible to school activities" and away from the "whirlpool of traffic" that now exists.

The second part of a "master plan" is that the Russell playground be converted to commercial use with the lower portion near St. Agnes Church, reserved for a parking area which would be beneficial to church-goers and shoppers.

Alcoholism is a serious problem affecting the entire family. Help must be extended not only to the alcoholic, but to the members of the family, in order that they may learn how to adjust to living with the problem drinker.

The primary aim of Al-Anon is to help the relative seeking help in gaining greater happiness by removal of harmful attitudes—such as resentment, self-pity, fear or despair. Through knowledge one becomes more objective and results in greater

THE LIFE AND TIMES OF

"Honey Fitz"

John F. "Honey Fitz" Fitzgerald, grandfather of our President.

History lives again in this newspaper series from John Henry Cutler's book as colorful political figures fight and shout through Record American pages. Brawling, uproarious years of brickbats and insults. Honey Fitz in frock coat and derby singing "Sweet Adeline" as the theme song of a political career. Fighting his way up in the gaslight era when the sweat of labor was bought at 70c a day. When grinding poverty and prejudice were symbolized by the NINA sign at factory gates... No Irish Need Apply. LIVING with your HEART

A COMMUNITY SERVICE OF THE
MASSACHUSETTS HEART ASSOCIATION

One of the most heart-rending responsibilities a parent ever faces comes when a child must be told he is going to a hospital for surgery or other major medical treatment.

How much or how little to tell? How to go about it? These questions which have plagued parents for generations, have been answered by the Massachusetts Heart Association.

In most cases, a child going to the hospital should be told the truth—or at least part of the truth. Usually, it's less frightening than what his imagination can invent.

Of course, this won't eliminate his fears entirely, but it will be a big help in facing them.

It's vital, too, to keep an optimistic, calm outlook yourself. The child's morale inevitably reflects your own outlook. Sympathy without tears, honest explanation of his illness and what must be done to make him well will help him develop a sound, healthy attitude.

Don't tell your youngster every detail—only what he can understand at his age and as much as is necessary to prepare him for the immediate future. This will insure that he won't be shocked, or feel he has been tricked by his parents and doctors.

When he goes to the hospital—especially if he is very young and has never been away from home—he may fear he is being deserted, punished for being naughty, and that he will be hurt in some way he can't comprehend.

It is a major parental responsibility to convince the child this is not so.

Before he arrives at the hospital, he should be prepared for the time when the parent will not be there. If surgery is in the offing it should be explained to him, including the administration of an anesthetic and—in a restrained way—the discomfort that may follow the operation.

Otherwise the youngster may panic when he is alone and facing the unknown, and he may lose faith in his family at a critical period.

In any explanation, always stress the positive side. Let him realize that although he is ill, a way has been found to make him well, that doctors and nurses are his friends and whatever they do, they must—to help him.

He must be told that if tests or surgery are needed, it is because he is loved and they are the way back to health, and that he won't feel a thing during the operation.

Tell him that although you want him at home, he will improve faster in the hospital.

And never fail to visit him when you have promised to.

Easter Seals Helping Many

Through its Easter Seal rehabilitation projects, the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped last year helped 1,371 crippled children and adults toward greater usefulness, jobs and financial independence.

This was an increase of 190 persons served during the previous year.

An increasing number of disabled adults were among those aided met by the Easter Seal Society's services.

A traveling rehabilitation team has provided demonstration projects for hospitals in a number of communities throughout the state.

As a result of the team and individual case services, the physically handicapped of more than 150 Massachusetts communities benefited.

Recently the team started a demonstration project in speech therapy for children in cooperation with the public school department of Ayr.

The traveling team is also helping communities to determine what physical restoration services they can or cannot provide locally because of resources and professional staff, of which there is a chronic shortage.

Demonstration projects frequently are evaluated to determine the needs of the handicapped and how they can best be met.

In addition to the traveling rehabilitation team and individual case services, Easter Seal programs include the rehabilitation Center of Worcester, a placement program in the Greater Boston area and a project to eliminate architectural barriers to the handicapped and aging in public buildings across the state.

COURSES IN POLITICS

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce will sponsor four new courses in practical politics beginning Jan. 21, it was announced today by Earl P. Stevenson, chamber president.

The nine-week, non-partisan course is designed to encourage people to actively participate in the political party of their choice, Mr. Stevenson said.

The courses, to be conducted at the Chamber's headquarters, 125 High Street, Boston, are scheduled Mondays at 4:30 p.m.; Tuesdays at 4:45 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.; Thursdays at 7:00 p.m.

ALL ABOUT BABIES

By Aline B. Auerbach
Assistant Director
Child Study Association

If you ask parents, "what is discipline?" you'll get a variety of answers.

"It's making a child behave," some will say. Or, "It's teaching a child how to act," or "It's making him learn obedience." Or more specifically, "It's punishing him if he doesn't do what I tell him to, when I tell him to."

Their words seem to imply that children need to be punished in order to learn, and that they will learn only when something unpleasant happens to them.

Yet, if we look more closely, we see that youngsters often learn best without being directly taught. They get their clues from the behavior of those who care for them. Even a small child knows when you are pleased with him, and when you are not. He knows this by the look on your face and the tone of your voice, by the way you help him with his sweater, or put his plate down in front of him.

Children of all ages give up many things they want to do or have, in order to win and keep their parents' approval. They do this without knowing it themselves. They learn what to do and what not to do from the very love their parents give them.

Parents seldom recognize how much of this adjustment goes on quietly every day, and how a child's pleasant feeling of being accepted and approved smooths the way for his learning.

In order to learn, a child needs, first, the freedom to grow, to find out for himself, to become independent. He must have the chance to explore the world around him, and to experiment with all kinds of activity at his own pace. For this he needs help and encouragement from his parents.

And second, he needs control. He needs to know that there are limits to what he can do, and must understand to some degree why limits are necessary. For this, too, he needs his parents' help.

With encouragement and direction, children can accept the standards parents have for them and gradually take over these standards as their own. This is how children learn to decide for themselves what is right or wrong, and eventually to develop self-control.

And so, in time, discipline becomes self-discipline.

Ask Equal Control To Save System

Americans can be saved billions of dollars in costs of products they use if this nation moves quickly to rescue its vital transportation system from near collapse, according to a railroad leader David I. Mackie in the January Reader's Digest.

The current crisis can be checked, says Mackie, chairman of Eastern Railroad Presidents Conference, only by the establishment of a "truly national policy with just and equitable controls for all transport — air, highway, water and rail — impartially administered by a single agency."

"We — Americans — spend roughly 50 billion dollars a year on transportation to move our products, with a cost to the consumer of about a dime on every dollar," Mackie reports. This annual freight bill could be reduced by several billion dollars, he declares, if all transportation had the same legal advantages.

In his article, "The Crisis in U.S. Transportation," Mackie praises President Kennedy's recent message to Congress which urged "a consistent and comprehensive framework of equal competitive opportunity."

The railroads, Mr. Mackie says, are being crushed by competitive chaos resulting from "the juggling of responsibility for our transportation system among a dozen federal agencies and 100 state commissions, plus transportation laws that are in such bad shape they make a decent job almost impossible."

The effect of these inequities in the law is the gradual shriveling up of our common carrier system — the real crux of the major crisis in our transportation history, the article says.

Seeking swift action to avert this impending disaster that threatens our basic economy, Mackie calls upon America to put transportation's legal framework in order under unified directions.
